Reading's New Aluminum Classic Service Van Establishes New Industry Standard

READING, PA ---- Reading Truck Body's new Aluminum Classic Service Van (CSV) establishes a new standard for work trucks, with nearly a 45 percent weight savings, a larger payload and increased standard features. Reading's commitment to increased use of aluminum is part of its ongoing "Go Green" initiative, and assures better customer satisfaction through major savings for fleets and utilities.

The new CSV is amazingly light – saving over 1,100 pounds versus competitive brands, but features an incredibly strong enclosed service body. It comes with a variety of standard features that are sold as options on competing vans, including master locking, translucent roof, LED lights, cargo tie-downs and complete powder coat finish paint. Major advantages and benefits of Reading's new CSV include:

- Increased fuel efficiency
- Better payload capacity
- Less wear and tear on chassis components
- A 10-year warranty
- Built with recyclable materials
- Reading Truck Body name and quality
